

Foto: Alex Anton/AntonImages.com

Alan L. Moss is a versatile writer who has penned three books since 2000, each a unique and innovative work. His debut novel, Island of Betrayal, is scheduled for release by Gauthier Publications in April 2010. Dr. Moss has been Chief Economist of the federal Wage and Hour Division, Adjunct Instructor of Economics and Career Decision Making at the University of Virginia's Northern Virginia Campus, and Congressional Fellow for U.S. Senator Frank R Lautenberg. After retiring from the U.S. Department of Labor in 2002, Alan moved to the Jersey shore, where he lives with his wife Penny and their golden retriever Ginger.

To learn more about Alan visit: Alanlmoss.com